About nine thousand years ago, almost forty percent of the land surface of Earth was covered by forests. Today, thanks to the ax and the mighty power of bulldozers and chain saws, about half of these forests have vanished.

Few forests remain which are still ecologically intact. It is difficult to measure the extent of the loss, because forests are so central to life on Earth. They tend to stabilize climate, foster and maintain bio-diversity and prevent flooding and erosion.

The effects of a forest which has been denuded by logging are more deadly than may first appear. Erosion begins, hunters and miners move in as the land becomes more accessible, and then farming takes over as the last trees are cleared away. Once farming establishes itself, there is little hope for reforestation.

- ☐ (B) To release new scientific research
- ☐ (A) To hold a controversial position
- ☐ (C) To sell forests to developers
- ☒ (D) To warn readers of a dangerous situation

✓ 165. Why are the effects of logging so hard to gauge? *

MEMORANDUMATTENTION ALL HOURLY EMPLOYEES

Effective immediately, paychecks will no longer be handed out on Fridays. Due to changes in payroll, we will now have paychecks available on the first and third Monday of each month. You can either pick your check up on these days in the Human Resources office (on floor 11) before 5:00 p.m., or you can sign up for automatic deposit.

For those of you who are unfamiliar with automatic deposit, this means that your check will be put directly into your checking account and you will receive a receipt of deposit from the bank each month in the mail. If you are interested in automatic deposit, you must sign up before February 23. The sign-up sheet is posted on the door of Human Resources.

For those who pick up their checks directly, remember that if you do not sign for your check on the first or third Monday, it will automatically be sent to you in the mail. Please be aware that we do not take responsibility for checks that are lost in the mail, and stop-payment fees are paid by the employee.

- ☐ (A) The employee would pick it up on the next Monday
- ☐ (B) The company would pay for a stop payment
- ☐ (C) A deposit slip would be automatically sent to the employee
- ☒ (D) The employee would report the loss and cover the fee

IN-FLIGHT INSTRUCTIONS:

In the event of an emergency, please go to your seat and fasten your seatbelt. Attendants will be on hand to assist you.

All electronic devices should be turned off, as these could interfere with the pilot's radio transmissions.

Should the cabin lose pressure, an oxygen mask will automatically fall from the overhead compartment. Simply slide the plastic cord over your head, fit the mask to your face and then breathe through the mask. If you are with a child, first put on your own mask. This will help you to assist your child.

In the unlikely event that the plane is forced to make a water landing, the seat on which you are sitting is also a flotation device. Simply pull it up and out.

Exit ramps from the plane are clearly marked.

- ☐ (A) At an airport
- ☐ (B) On a boat
- ☐ (C) In a hospital
- ☒ (D) On a plane

What mosquitos do and why their bites itch!

When a mosquito lands on you, its first task is to find a blood vessel. As blood vessels make up less than five percent of your skin, this is no small task. Once a mosquito has succeeded with its probing, it begins the extraction. To keep the blood flowing and the vessel dilated, mosquitos pump in chemicals which thin the blood and expand the vessel. Our allergic reaction to these chemicals is what causes the itch.

One out of every six Americans invests in stocks and bonds. And every single one of them is trying to find out which investment is best. Ideally speaking, the best advice would come from a person who knew everything about every company: what the products are, how big the demand is, how big the demand will be, what the overhead is, etc. The list could go on for pages.

That would be the ideal picture. The other end of the spectrum would be advice based on hearsay.

The truth is, if you're going to take control of your financial investments, then either you have to do the research yourself, or find someone else you can rely on. Chances are you don't really have time to do the research. You're too busy making the money to invest. So how do you know which person or company to trust? How do you know if they are doing their homework?

Do some research. Ask some questions. You see, a good financial advisor will tell you how he comes up with his conclusions. He digs for the data. He finds out about a company's management. He visits factories. He looks at the potential for demand, watches the local political climate, etc.

So, if you really want to take control, you can, but you have to be willing to ask the questions. A good financial advisor is more than willing to tell you why he makes the decisions he does.

- ☐ (A) Which companies to invest in
- ☒ (B) How to choose a financial advisor
- ☐ (C) How politics affect company profits
- ☐ (D) How to research stocks and bonds

✓ 197. Why do most people want to buy a home? *

THE RESULTS of a Westchester real estate survey reveal that although 50% of those interviewed would prefer not to make monthly rental payments or deal with landlords, the biggest reason people buy a house is so that they can have a place they can call their own. Only 10% were motivated by financial reasons – buying the house to sell later at a profit. Twenty-five percent of those interviewed did so because they wanted property for their children to play on. Of that, 5% were concerned about room for pets. Oddly enough, next to “having your own place,” the greatest motivating factor was the urge to build, remodel, and choose design interiors. And although owning a home puts one in a certain social station, that consideration had almost no influence in the decision to buy (less than 1%). Now, more than anything else, people want to have a place of their own to do with as they wish.
